Grand Master Frank S. Harmon, of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, F. & M., has made the following announcement: To the Masons of Ohio, Greeting: It has become the solemn duty of the Grand Master to announce officially to the Masons throughout this grand jurisdiction the death of our iland greys, with full flonuce grand jurisdiction the death of our il-McKinley.

Brother William McKinley was a member of Eagle lodge, No. 431, F. & A. M., Canton, O., and during his early life was much interested in the work of his local lodge. As the duties of state became more and more onerous he was unable to give to it much of his time and thought, but he was always steadfast in upholding the principles of Free Masonry and was an arduous supporter of its manifold

By reason of the high character of the Speaks Feelingly of the Dead President as of the high position he held in matters of state, and the love, affection and esteem in which he was held by the citizens of almost an entire world, I deem it my duty to direct that fitting tribute be made to his memory by the Masons of the state, I therefore direct that all lodges have their lights, jewels, emblems and furniture suitably draped for a period of sixty days, and that suitable memorial exercises be held to commemorate the high character of this truly great Mason. And permission is hereby extended to wear United States, and aside from the aprons and jewels in procession or otherwise for the purpose of performing the details of this proclamation.

New York, Sept. 16 .- (Spl.)-Augustus Palmer, of Somerville, Mass., who says he was the last person to shake hands with President McKinley, before the assassin's shots were fired, and who is in the city, said today:

"While there was every prospect of Wm. the President's recovery, I thought there was no reason why I should add my testimony against the man who fired the shots.

"I feel as if Mr. McKinley's death was a more personal bereavement to me in a more especial sense than in can be to any other person who was stranger to him. I feel so because I was the last who touched his hand while he was still in the flush and vigor of health.

They are seen in the flags floating at half mast on both public and private buildings. In the windows of many houses, also, draped portraits of the late President are seen. Never was the city so universally in mourning.

Quite invariably when William Mc-Kinley spoke in Akron, he referred to the people of this city as his neighbors. There was more than passing pleasantry in his words. He was sincere. That there was and is a recip-Was rocal feeling on the part of Akron people, irrespective of their political differences, was shown once, when without regard to party affiliations they hurried joyously to Canton to congratulate him upon his nomination for the Presidency; but with infinitely greater feeling it is shown now, in evidences of sorrow on every hand and in every spoken word referring to the dreadful tragedy and its results.
